Cong abandoned tribals, BJP restored their dignity: Modi

AHMEDABAD

Prime Minister Narendra Modi launched a blistering political attack on the Congress while speaking on Janjatiya Gaurav Divas on Saturday in Gujarat.

Accusing the Congress of abandoning tribal communities for six decades and failing to recognise their contributions, the PM highlighted the BJP's record of expanding welfare spending, building institutions, and elevating Adivasi leaders to national prominence since 2014.

He invoked history, saying tribal sacrifices in the freedom struggle were suppressed to glorify 'a few families', and asserted that his government restored long-overdue honour to tribal icons and communities across India.

'Malnutrition, poor health services, broken connectivity and the absence of education became the 'forced identity' of tribal regions as previous governments refused to intervene'

"The malnutrition, poor health services, broken connectivity and the absence of education became the "forced identity" of tribal regions as previous governments refused to intervene," he said, adding that "They sat idle while an entire community struggled."

Deadly explosion rips through Kashmir police station, 9 killed

The blast tore through Nowgam police station, torching vehicles and shattering windows in nearby homes; J&K DGP says the explosion was accidental

JAMMU

At least nine people were killed and 32 others were injured after a cache of confiscated explosives detonated inside the Nowgam police station on the outskirts of Srinagar on Friday night.

The region's Director General of Police, Nalin Prabhat, said the blast occurred when a team of forensic experts and police were extracting samples from a cache of explosives seized in the Faridabad terror module case.

According to officials, the blast was triggered by the unstable nature of the chemicals, which was part of the 360 kg of explosives, including ammonium nitrate, recovered from the rented accommodation of arrested accused Dr Muzammil Ganaie from Faridabad and stored at the police station.

The blast caused extensive damage to the building and set several vehicles in the compound on fire. Windowpanes of nearby houses were also shattered, and the impact was felt few kilometres away.

Those killed included three personnel from the Forensic Science Laboratory, two from the Revenue Department, including a Naib Tehsildar, two police photographers, one member of the State Investigation Agency, and a tailor, who was called to assist the police investigators to collect samples of the explosives seized from a "white collar" terror module busted recently. The tailor has been identified as Mohammad Shafi Parray (47), a tailor by profession.

DELHI BLAST: AGENCIES DETAIN 3 MORE DOCS

CHANDIGARH

A surgeon from Pathankot in Punjab, who had earlier worked at Al-Falah University, has been detained in the Delhi Red Fort blast. Additionally, two doctors from Nuh and two fertilizer and seed sellers were picked up from Sohna in Haryana.

The Al-Falah University in Faridabad continues to remain under the scanner of multiple central and state agencies, with revenue officials checking the university's land records and measurements. Meanwhile, the National Medical Commission (NMC) has cancelled the registrations of the four doctors involved in the terror module behind the blast on November 10.

Sources said that 45-year old Dr Rayees Ahmad Bhat, who is presently associated with White Medical College in Pathankot, was detained by the central agencies and is being questioned after investigators found that he was allegedly in touch with Dr Umar Nabi the main master mind of the Delhi Red Fort blast in which a dozen people died. Bhat worked at the Al-Falah University from 2020 to 2021. The investigators found that Dr Bhat was in regular touch with staff at the university.

NEW DELHI

Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Saturday met top Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Saturday and instilled confidence with the Gandhi family scion following the Congress party's massive defeat in the Bihar assembly polls.

Siddaramaiah was in Delhi to attend a book release programme of former Union Minister and senior advocate Kapil Sibal.

The CM meeting with Rahul Gandhi fueled political speculation amid talk of 'November Revolution' of possible change of leadership in Karnataka.

However, the CM categorically told media that "Karnataka political issue including long pending cabinet rejig or any other issues was not discussed with Rahul. This meeting was only to discuss the outcome of Bihar polls."

The CM said he, along with Telangana Chief Minister Revanth Reddy met Rahul. Congress General Secretary (Organisation) K C Venugopal and other party central leaders were also present. The meeting lasted for 15 minutes, in which both Siddaramaiah and in which both Siddaramaiah and Reddy reposed faith in Rahul leadership and vowed to extend full support to his fight against the BJP and its agenda. 28 blackbucks die of bacterial infection in Belagavi zoo

BELAGAVI

A sudden wave of deaths at the Kittur Rani Chennamma Zoo in Belagavi has triggered alarm within Karnataka's Forest Department, after 28 blackbucks perished within three days under unexplained circumstances.

Zoo authorities confirmed that the facility housed 38 blackbucks, of which only 10 now remain. Assistant Conservator of Forest Nagaraj Balhasuri said eight blackbucks died two days earlier, with another 20 succumbing on Saturday. He noted that the zoo's veterinary team suspects a bacterial infection, though the precise cause is yet to be determined. "We have sent the viscera sample to the authorities at Bannerghatta Zoological Park in Bengaluru to find out the reason behind the death," Balhasuri told reporters.

Preliminary findings suggest a bacterial infection as the cause of the mass deaths, raising serious concerns over the alleged negligence of the zoo's veterinary doctors and forest staff.

According to experts, the toll could have been significantly lower had the infected animals been identified early and immediately isolated from the herd. The failure to monitor the health of the animals and take timely action is being viewed as a major lapse.

According to preliminary reports, these deer died of an infectious disease,. The Minister has directed that all precautionary measures be taken to prevent any other animal in the zoo from getting infected, and ordered for forming an expert committee to probe whether these deer died after consuming contaminated water and food.

Next, BJP-JD(S) will snatch K'taka from Cong: HDK

NEW DELHI

Union Minister H D Kumaraswamy on Friday said the BJP and JD(S) coalition will fight together in the next assembly polls in Karnataka and defeat the ruling Congress.

He predicted that the state will witness a Bihar-like result in the next Assembly elections, suggesting the Congress will lose in Karnataka in the next assembly polls.

"Already there is an anti-Congress wave in Karnataka. The Congress has spent two-and-a-half years by only deliberating on leadership. People who had high hopes and gave the Congress the mandate with 136 seats are disappointed.

People are now awaiting the next elections and ready to teach Congress a lesson," Kumaraswamy told reporters here.

The Bihar election has taught a lesson to the Congress for its "false propaganda" on the "vote chori" campaign and levelling false allegations against the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of the voters' list.

'PURIFICATION' EFFORT!

K Jayakumar takes charge as prez of gold scam-tainted Travancore Devaswom Board

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Amid the controversy over the Sabarimala gold theft case that has cast a shadow over the Kerala government and the temple administration, former chief secretary K Jayakumar took charge as president of the Travancore Devaswom Board (TDB) on Saturday.

As veteran, now retired bureaucrat Jayakumar assumes charge as the new TDB president on Saturday, shockwaves from the ongoing probe into the Sabarimala gold heist have unsettled the CPI(M)'s top brass, including Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan.

The arrest of five people earlier this week, culminating in the dramatic detention of N Vasu, a two-time former Devaswom commissioner, former TDB president and long-time confidant of Chief Minister Vijayan — has pushed the party into an uncomfortable defensive posture.

Vasu's arrest, insiders admit, has sparked anxiety within the leadership as the Kerala High Court-appointed Special Investigation Team continues its enquiry without interference from the Chief Minister's Office.

Jayakumar, who replaces CPI-M member PS Prasanth, steps into the role at a moment of unprecedented scrutiny.

While his administrative credentials are widely acknowledged, he is expected to face pressure from the CPI(M)-backed unions that wield significant clout in the Board.

UoM VC Loknath regrets decline in quality of Phd thesis

MYSURU

University of Mysore Vice-Chancellor Prof N.K.Loknath has called upon research students to pick up the subjects which are useful to the society and complete the thesis on their own without depending on others.

Speaking after inaugurating a one day workshop on Manuscript writing, journal publication and research ethics for the research candidates, he said the P.hds are the highest recognition of any university and they speak the reputation of the varsity. Unfortunately, the quantity of research papers has taken a nosedive with no quality or content in it. The subjects of the research are very poor and it shows that those candidates had been doing it just for the sake. It has been observed that the content and name of many theses in Kannada are same in Mysore and Bangalore universities except the book binding and the candidates name. In fact, there are a lot of subjects which are available for the research works in Kannada language such as the works on the leading Kannada litterateurs but the candidates don't put the efforts at all as they are busy with their mobile phones.

The VC bemoaned over the lack of seriousness among the research candidates in doing their task. Around 35 candidates took the scholarship money but ran away without submitting their research works. Once they choose the subject, they waste the first two years without doing anything and waste time.

They won't submit the research works even after a decade. In view of this, the varsity had fixed five years time for the research candidates to complete their assignments and submit within that period failing which the late submitted thesis were not accepted. In his view, the period for phd submission must be brought down to three years to bring seriousness among the students.

Prof Loknath said a majority of the thesis don't find the merit to be published in national and international journals and magazines. The works of leading Kannada litterateur, late Prof S.L.Bhyrappa had been translated into several languages across the world and through this the writer got the international reputation. The thesis work submitted by the students must be worth publishing in international journals but unfortunately such works were not coming. The varsity had fixed the number of candidates for each guide as some guides have had more number of students due to which they have been unable to give individual attention. With latest applications like AI and ChatGPT it is possible for the students to complete their thesis within a day but they should not do it. They must sit in libraries and read books to complete their thesis without depending upon gadgets. Then the research will have a real meaning.

The VC said he submitted his research work within two years and eight months, and some of his works had been published in international journals and magazines. The research candidates must complete their thesis on their own without the assistance of anyone. Their efforts would be known during the viva-voce by a panel of experts. As far as possible they must be honest in their job and bring credit to the varsity. To help students to choose the good subjects, the varsity had arranged the workshop for the better understanding of their assignments.

M.K.Savita, registrar, UoM, Prof R Mahesh, coordinator, University Vocational Centre, Girish Bagh, honorary director, CSR Funds and Research grants and P.Prabhakar, CEO, SCIRESOL were present.

Farmers block road protesting against repeated tiger attacks

HUNSUR

Following continuous tiger attacks in different parts of the Nagarahole forest border, farmers staged a road blockade protest against officials of the Forest Department in Hunsur on Saturday.

Farmers from various villages under Hanagodu hobli gathered at the Hanagodu Circle on Saturday, blocked the Hanagodu main road, set fire to tyres, and shouted slogans condemning the Forest Department officials while expressing their anger.

Speaking during the protest, farmer leader and entrepreneur H. V. Karthik said in the Hanagodu region, within just one week, tigers have killed eight cattle and fifteen sheep and goats. Every single day, there is a tiger attack somewhere on cattle, sheep or goats. Farmers, daily wage labourers, cattle grazers and shepherds are living in constant fear for their lives. The Forest Department has completely failed in controlling tiger attacks and in protecting people and livestock. The tiger must be captured, and the lives of the people and their animals in this region must be safeguarded. We will not withdraw our protest until the tiger is trapped.

Forest Department DCF Shivakumar and Police Sub-Inspector Ramu visited the spot. They received the farmers' memorandum, assured them that their concerns would be brought to the notice of higher officials and that immediate action would be taken to capture the tiger.

Based on this assurance, the protest was withdrawn.

Rajyotsava and Children's Day celebrated at Nypunya School

MYSURU

Mysuru District Brahmin Sabha President and industrialist, D.T.Prakash said only when mother tongue or the local language is given priority at the primary education level can children learn other languages—including English—and gain mastery over them.

Speaking after inaugurating the Kannada Rajyotsava and Children's Day celebrations organised at the Nypunya School of Excellence here, he said that Children's Day is celebrated on the birthday of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, who was very fond of children. To make children cultured, education must emphasize discipline and a love for learning right from the primary stage. Parents and teachers must strive to bring out the cultural sensibilities within children. Only then will children develop a love for their mother tongue just as they do for their parents, and also gain command over English. This is a scientifically proven fact.

Prakash said today, homes are unable to create a natural childhood environment for children. Therefore, schools must create an atmosphere that introduces children to traditional practices so that they grow into socially responsible individuals. To achieve this, activities that cultivate environmental awareness, love for the land and language, and pride in the nation must be organized. In this regard, Nypunya Institution has been highly active, adopting a research-oriented approach and conducting new experiments in primary education—an essential need of the present times, he added.

At the RT Nagar campus, journalist and writer Savigannada Ranganath inaugurated the programme and said through their language, traditions, and the cultural practices rooted in their environment, children can develop a love for their mother and motherland. Whatever the medium, it is the foremost duty of educational institutions to emphasise Kannada learning for children. Even though the central curriculum is followed, Nypunya Institution has taken special care to promote Kannada language learning, which is highly commendable.

At both campuses, children performed fancy dress, dance to Kannada songs, and short plays as part of the celebrations.

The programme was presided over by the institution's President R. Raghu. Principals Mahendra M.N. and Shalini were present.

Birsa Munda is the identity of Adivasis: CAADA Chairman

CHAMARAJANAGAR

Freedom fighter Birsa Munda, who stood up against British oppression and atrocities, organized the tribal people to fight for their rights over forest resources, and today he stands as a symbol of Adivasi identity, said CAADA Chairman P. Mariswamy.

Speaking at the 150th birth anniversary celebration of revolutionary tribal leader Bhagwan Shri Birsa Munda, organised today at the J.H. Patel auditorium in the city on Saturday, he said that India's freedom struggle saw several leaders rise in successive waves. The British would suddenly enter the forests, convert Adivasis, commit atrocities, and loot forest wealth. Birsa Munda became a nightmare to such British forces. He awakened tribal communities across different parts of the country to the call of freedom and used guerrilla warfare tactics to push back the British. Though he was eventually captured before the modern artillery of the British forces, Birsa Munda revived the cultural spirit of the Adivasi people.

In the same way, his father has been implementing good programmes in his native place. During his earlier tenure as Public Works Minister, he constructed many roads and bridges. He converted a place that was once filled with cow dung into a beautiful park, giving a valuable contribution to the people of this village. A film city is already coming up in this region, and this will make Hadinaru village a tourist attraction.

Don't feel disappointed thinking they are weak in studies. By engaging in various cultural activities such as music, dance and art, they can progress in life.

Bihar poll setback stalls buzz over leadership change in K'taka

Congress's Bihar setback has halted Karnataka leadership change talks, with the high command avoiding instability amid rising political pressure

SHYAM SUNDAR VATTAM
MYSURU

The resounding defeat suffered by the Congress in the Bihar Assembly elections has triggered a political recalibration within the party, especially in Karnataka. For months, speculation had been rife over whether Chief Minister Siddaramaiah would be asked to make way for his deputy and KPCC president D.K. Shivakumar as part of a long-discussed rotational leadership formula. But the Bihar outcome has effectively silenced that debate — at least for now.

The Congress high command in Delhi is understood to have assessed the political mood within the party organisation across states following the Bihar debacle. The strong message that emerged was that any internal instability in Karnataka could have far-reaching consequences. Karnataka is currently the only major state where the Congress holds power on its own, and Delhi leaders are unwilling to risk unsettling the government at a time when the party is already grappling with morale issues.

A key factor weighing on the minds of central observers is Siddaramaiah's political stature and the likely fallout of his removal. Party strategists know well that he is not the kind of leader who would step aside quietly if asked to resign. His long political career has shown that any attempt to sideline him can lead to a deep rupture within the organisation, especially among his core support base.

There is also historical context. The political developments in 2006, when Siddaramaiah walked out of the JD(S) after being denied the chief ministership and later joined the Congress, remain a lesson for political managers in Delhi. His exit back then had split the JD(S) and altered Karnataka's political landscape. This background has made the central leadership particularly cautious about any move that could provoke a similar chain reaction.

The loss in Bihar has also made the Congress recognise the vulnerability of its broader national positioning. With public sentiment turning sharply against the party in a BJP-dominated Hindi belt, any instability in Karnataka could be disastrous. If the Karnataka government were to fall mid-term, it is widely believed within Congress circles that the party would struggle to return to power due to growing anti-incumbency and perceived policy setbacks.

Given these calculations, the central leadership appears inclined to let Siddaramaiah continue until the end of the government's term in 2028. At the same time, they may assure Shivakumar that he will be considered for the top post only if the Congress retains power in the next Assembly election.

This formula, party insiders believe, could prevent factional conflict from escalating while still keeping Shivakumar invested in the party's electoral future.

The Bihar outcome has also strengthened the argument that mid-term elections would be suicidal for the Congress. Public sentiment in Karnataka has shifted significantly, with sections of voters increasingly critical of what they see as the party's appeasement politics and weakening administrative performance. For many, the current situation mirrors the BJP's position in 2023, when the ruling party lost not due to the Congress's welfare guarantees but due to widespread complaints of corruption and governance failure.

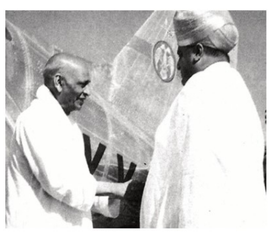
Meanwhile, the BJP continues to struggle with internal rifts, preventing it from capitalising on the situation. The JD(S), too, remains confined to its traditional pockets in south Karnataka, lacking a wider statewide presence.

In this fluid landscape, the Congress leadership has concluded that retaining stability in Karnataka is crucial for the party's national survival. For now, the message is clear: Siddaramaiah stays, Shivakumar waits, and the debate over leadership change has been pushed far into the background — at least until the next electoral cycle gains momentum.

My grandfather lent aircraft for Patel's nationwide travel: MP

MYSURU

Mysuru MP Yaduveer Krishnadatta Wadiyar recalled that his grandfather, Sri Jayachamaraja Wadiyar, supported princely state merger and offered his personal aircraft for Sardar Patel's unification efforts.



Mysuru-Kodagu Lok Sabha member Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar said that his grand father, Sri Jayachamaraja Wadiyar has been one among a few rulers of the princely states who opted for the merger of their provinces into the Indian Union. Besides, he offered his own Dakota plane to the Home Minister Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel who traveled around the country to convince other provinces for the merger process.

Speaking after inaugurating Ekta Nadige organised in connection with the 150th birth anniversary of the Iron Man of India, Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel here on Saturday, he said the erstwhile Mysore state never opposed the merger call given by Patel after the independence. Some of the Muslim rulers of the princely states like the Nizams of Hyderabad not only declined to accept Patel's call but also threatened to join their provinces with Pakistan. If Patel did not take a bold stand, the country would not have been united. At that time, Sri Jayachamaraja Wadiyar agreed to Patel's call and also offered his own Dakota plane to the Iron Man of India to travel all around the country with his mission to unite India.

Yaduveer said Patel came from a poor background and studied hard to become a good lawyer. Along with his profession, he also plunged into the country's freedom struggle. He was very focused on his mission and never backtracked despite pressure from various quarters. It was very difficult to find such a dedicated politician and his commitment is unquestionable. To remember his unity message, the Ekta Walk is organised to give a rich tribute to the great personality. The central government led by Narendra Modi has been treading the path of Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel in the last 11 years and installed a big statue in Gujarat.

MLA T.S.Srivatsa, City BJP President L.Nagendra, BJP Mysuru Rural President Subbanna and others were present.

MYSURU

H.S.Suresh Babu, member of Ranga Samaja inaugurated Mysuru Rangabhumi Badminton League at Manasagangotri Indoor Stadium in the city on Saturday.

Speaking on the occasion, he welcomed the initiative that will boost the energy of those involved in theatre activities. Once they get into theatre groups, the artists would undergo training in dialogue delivery and body language but not much attention is given towards their physical strength. In this regard, the MRBL has done a right thing by holding the Badminton League that would provide the opportunity for the theatre activists to spend some time on up keeping their health condition. A league of this kind must be organized regularly not only in Mysuru but also in other parts of the State to aid the artists to remain fit and fine.

Dr C.Venkatesh, head, Department of Physical Education, University of Mysore, opined that participating in the sports in more important than winning or losing in games. The artists would be always thinking about their field and don't give much time towards physical activities. One of the major things that the sports teach is developing sportive spirit and to remain calm during both happiness and sorrow. He thanked UoM Vice-Chancellor, Dr N.K.Loknath for allowing the MRBL to use the university infrastructure to hold the Badminton league for the artists.

The varsity usually don't permit using its facilities by private persons or organisations but the VC gave the special permission following his interest in theatre.

'Let Cong make introspection on Bihar poll debacle'

MYSURU

Mysuru -Kodagu Lok Sabha member Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar asked Congress party leaders to make introspection for the stunning drubbing in the recently held assembly elections in Bihar instead of repeating its cacophony of 'vote chori'.

Talking to reporters here on Saturday, he said the voters of Bihar have rejected grand old party, Congress and gave the big mandate to NDA. The Congress-led Mahaghatbandhan had been rejected by the Bihar voters.

Asked about Chief Minister Siddaramaiah saying that vote Chori helped NDA to win the election, the MP said the CM has to say what his national party leaders uttered because there is no space for him to reveal his individual opinion in Congress party. It was high time the Congress leaders introspect themselves to find out reasons for their party debacle in Bihar instead of blaming the Election Commission.

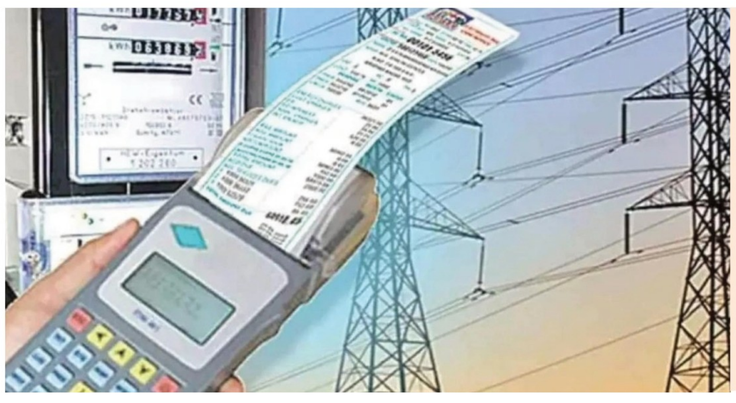
Power bill recovery drive begins in CESC limits

MYSURU



A total outstanding amount of ₹40.69 crore is pending from 8,053 connections, which include domestic, commercial, industrial consumers as well as various government departments.
As of the end of October 2025, the corporation's average revenue collection efficiency has been recorded at 94.10%, which shows a decline of 0.82% compared to the previous period.
Since only 97% of the annual demand is being collected, a loss of ₹150 crore to ₹175 crore is incurred every year.
In this regard, the corporation is conducting a special campaign to recover the pending dues.
As per regulations, except for essential services, electricity connections will be disconnected if dues are not paid. Managing Director K.M. Munigopal Raju has appealed to consumers to pay their dues at the earliest and cooperate with the authorities.

Chamundeshwari Electricity Supply Corporation Limited (CESC) has launched a mass electricity bill recovery campaign to recover pending power bills from consumers who have failed to pay their dues even after the deadline.

Despite repeated notices, they have also failed to pay additional security deposits. Hence, CESC has decided to take strict action against such consumers and recover the pending bills.

The mass electricity bill recovery campaign is being carried out across five districts under CESC's jurisdiction from November 14, 2025. Under this campaign, electricity connections of all categories of consumers — including government departments — that have not cleared their dues within the stipulated time will be disconnected without any prior notice.

Therefore, consumers who have not yet paid their electricity bills or additional security deposits are requested to clear their dues by November 14, 2025 either through CESC's authorized cash counters or online payment. The CESC Managing Director, in a press release, has appealed to consumers to cooperate and avoid disconnection of power supply.

Bihar voters have shown a place to Congress: Ex-Mayor

MYSURU

The enlightened voters of Bihar have responded to the Congress party's series of baseless allegations that mock the very electoral process, which is the soul of a democratic system, former Mayor Sandesh Swamy has said.In a press release here on Saturday, he said that the Congress never raises any hue and cry when it wins elections, including the Karnataka Assembly elections. But the moment it faces defeat, the party starts making baseless allegations such as malfunctioning of EVMs, vote rigging, and the Election Commission being a puppet in the hands of the BJP. The people of Bihar have proven that these are nothing but Congress's chain of lies by giving a historic victory to the NDA alliance that includes the BJP.

The Congress has no moral right to make allegations of vote rigging. The BJP never engages in such unethical political conduct.

Nearly four months after autorickshaw fares were revised in Bengaluru, most drivers continue to operate without updating their meters, frustrating commuters. The minimum fare rose from ₹30 to ₹36 for the first 2 km, with per-km charges increasing to ₹18, effective August 1. Despite a Transport Department deadline of October 31, compliance remains low, as many drivers rely on app-based bookings and bypass meters altogether. Commuters report being asked for inflated fares on street-hailed rides. Authorities said stricter inspections will follow, warning drivers of penalties. Bengaluru has over 3.6 lakh registered autos, though many remain off the road.

Police bust fake Nandini ghee network

BENGALURU

Bengaluru police have uncovered a network selling fake Nandini ghee, seizing 8,000 liters worth Rs 1.5 crore. Four people involved in the operation have been arrested, including KMF distributor Mahendra, his son Deepak, and two suppliers, Muniraju and Abhi Arasu.

The accused were reportedly supplying adulterated ghee to Nandini parlors across the city. Investigations revealed that some of the fake ghee was manufactured outside Karnataka and packed in bottles and packets before being sent to Bengaluru. One supplier sourced the ghee from Tamil Nadu, while the distributor and his son helped circulate it within the city.

Police acted swiftly to stop the network and recovered both the ghee and Rs 1.5 crore in cash. The authorities have confirmed that the operation was illegal and posed health risks to the public, as adulterated ghee can cause serious harm if consumed.

Officials have urged the public to be cautious while buying dairy products and report any suspicious activity to the police. They also emphasized that the crackdown demonstrates the city’s commitment to protecting consumers from fraudulent food products.

The four arrested individuals are currently in police custody, and further investigations are underway to identify any additional participants in the network. Authorities are closely monitoring supply chains to prevent similar incidents in the future.

City needs development, but not at the cost of environ, public safety: Shobha

BENGALURU

Union Minister Shobha Karandlaje strongly warned the state government against taking up development projects that harm Bengaluru’s environment and affect people’s lives.

She said the city needs development, but not at the cost of its natural spaces and public safety.

Speaking during a signature campaign and inspection visit near the main entrance of Sanki Lake at 18th Cross, Malleswaram, the Minister said the Congress government has already damaged Bengaluru’s lakes, green spaces and natural surroundings. She accused the government of constructing unscientific flyovers and destroying Sanki Lake in the name of development.

Karandlaje criticised the Detailed Project Report (DPR) prepared for the proposed tunnel road, calling it unscientific and rushed. She said Bengaluru deserves a proper, well-studied DPR that prioritises environmental protection.

“Bengaluru was once known as the city of gardens and lakes. But today, for the sake of commissions, the government has brought an unscientific DPR. We will oppose this strongly,” she said.

She alleged that projects like the tunnel road threaten to destroy important places such as Sanki Tank, Lalbagh and Cubbon Park. Many lakes, she added, have already disappeared due to real-estate scams, and now more natural spaces are under threat.

“What is the need to prepare the DPR in such a hurry?” she asked.

Karandlaje questioned which experts and teams were involved in preparing the DPR. She demanded clarity on whether environmental damage, cultural impact and pollution effects were studied in detail. She said that calling for tenders without proper scientific study is unacceptable and dangerous for the city’s future.

The Minister emphasised that development must be responsible and sustainable, and not carried out in a way that harms Bengaluru’s ecosystem or the well-being of its people.

Central leadership expected to resolve leadership issue: BYV

BENGALURU:

BJP state president B.Y. Vijayendra said he is confident that the party high command will soon give clear guidance about the confusion surrounding the BJP state president post in Karnataka. Speaking at the party office in Bengaluru, he responded to questions about the ongoing uncertainty. He said he already has clarity and hinted indirectly that he is continuing to serve as the working state president. His statement suggested that the party leadership will soon settle all doubts and make the situation clear for everyone. Vijayendra also spoke about the recent Bihar Assembly election results. He said the people of Bihar have strongly supported the NDA once again. He explained that the opposition tried to confuse voters by accusing the BJP of stealing votes, but the people did not accept those claims. According to him, voters remembered the difficult “Jungle Raj” period of the past and chose the NDA again because they wanted a peaceful and development-focused “Mangal Raj.” He accused the Congress of using a divisive political strategy both in Bihar and across the country, saying such politics will not help them earn people’s trust. He also targeted Rahul Gandhi, saying the Bihar results send a clear message about his leadership. He claimed Rahul Gandhi’s presence weakens his own party, and added that Rahul Gandhi has now disappeared from the country after the election outcome. Vijayendra said the Congress cannot tolerate the BJP’s development work, which is why they make statements against the party both within India and outside. He said they continue to speak about “vote theft” without any real proof.

BJP celebrates Bihar sweep in Bengaluru

Bihar poll rout dampens Cong momentum in K’taka

BENGALURU:

The crushing defeat of the Congress in the Bihar elections has created ripples in Karnataka, dampening internal calls for a leadership shake-up and stalling discussions on revolution or restructuring within the state party. Analysts say the high command is likely to adopt a wait-and-watch strategy, avoiding any immediate leadership changes to prevent further confusion. Sources indicate that the Bihar setback has strengthened CM Siddaramaiah’s position, sending a clear signal that his chair remains untouchable for now.

BENGALURU

BJP workers from the Yeshwantpur Assembly Constituency celebrated the NDA alliance’s victory in the Bihar elections with great enthusiasm on Saturday. The celebration took place at Dr. Raj Kumar Circle in Kengeri, where party members distributed sweets to the public and shared the joy of the election results.

M. Rudresh, State Vice President of the BJP Raita Morcha, said many opposition leaders had accused the NDA of vote manipulation during the Bihar polls. He added that some even attempted to lure voters with money. However, according to him, the people of Bihar rejected all such attempts and chose to give the NDA a clear and strong mandate. Rudresh also claimed that ever since Prime Minister Narendra Modi took office, the BJP has secured several victories across the country.

He contrasted this with Rahul Gandhi’s leadership, stating that Congress suffered repeated defeats under him.

Former BBMP member R. Anjanappa also spoke at the celebration. He said Rahul Gandhi attempted to mislead people by spreading false claims about EVM hacking and voter fraud. The voters of Bihar, he said, responded strongly by rejecting such claims and supporting the NDA. Anjanappa added that the Congress should take this result as a lesson and rethink its approach.

Hundreds of NDA supporters gathered at the celebration spot, turning the area into a festive scene. The event drew the participation of several party leaders, including former BBMP member R. Anjanappa, BJP Backward Classes State Executive Member R. P. Prakash, former BBMP nominee Sudhir, Bengaluru North District Backward Classes Vice President J. Ramesh, Ullal Ward former president Sasikumar, BJP Women’s General Secretary Lavanya, and leaders Spot Nagaraj and Tara.

X appeals HC ruling upholding Centre's Sahyog portal powers

X Corp has approached the Karnataka High Court, challenging the government's Sahyog portal powers over online content removal

BENGALURU

X Corp has filed an appeal before the Karnataka High Court challenging the single-judge ruling that upheld the Union Government's authority to issue content blocking directions through the Sahyog portal. The appeal, submitted on November 14, seeks to overturn the September 24 judgment, which dismissed X Corp's petition questioning the scope of Section 79(3)(b) of the Information Technology Act, 2000.

In its original petition, X Corp argued that Central Government officers do not possess independent statutory powers to issue blocking orders under Section 79(3)(b), asserting that such directions must follow the procedural framework under Section 69A of the IT Act and the Intermediary Guidelines and Digital Media Ethics Code Rules, 2021. The single-judge ruling, however, held that the Sahyog portal operates lawfully and is consistent with the IT Act, emphasizing the necessity of regulatory oversight in the digital domain.

The court had compared social media to a modern public arena, observing that unregulated platforms cannot be allowed to function in anarchic freedom. It stated that reasonable restrictions on online speech are essential to protect public order and individual dignity, particularly in cases involving offences against women. The judgment also noted that X Corp, being a foreign entity, cannot invoke Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution, which guarantees freedom of speech only to Indian citizens.

The court described the Sahyog portal as a cooperative tool designed under Section 79(3)(b) and Rule 3(b) of the 2021 Rules to combat cybercrime and facilitate lawful takedowns. It highlighted inconsistencies in X Corp's regulatory approach, noting compliance with similar directives in the U.S. but opposition to Indian regulations. Following the September ruling, X Corp had expressed disagreement and vowed to pursue appellate remedies, arguing that the decision contradicted the Bombay High Court judgment on the Central Government's Fact Check Unit and disputing the limitation of Article 19 protections to citizens. The appeal will now be heard by a division bench, which is expected to revisit critical questions regarding intermediary liability, the legal status of the Sahyog portal, Sections 69A and 79 of the IT Act, and the constitutional rights of foreign entities in India's digital regulatory framework.

Salumarada Timmakka's legacy inspires all: K. Sheshadri

Salumarada Timmakka's lifelong environmental efforts inspire society, with citizens urged to plant trees, maintain parks, and honor her legacy through action.

RAMANAGARA

Salumarada Timmakka, despite having little formal education, planted and nurtured thousands of saplings, turning them into full-grown trees, setting a remarkable example of environmental stewardship for society, said City Council President K. Sheshadri (Shashi). On Saturday, the Mahatma Gandhi Conservation Committee organized a garden event near the city court to celebrate Kannada Rajyotsava, during which the Kannada flag was hoisted. Sheshadri paid floral tributes to the late Timmakka's portrait, highlighting her lifelong dedication to the environment. He emphasized that today, while environmental discussions are widespread, many are mere words without action. Timmakka's selfless service, carried out without expectation, demonstrates that true values remain alive in society. Timmakka raised awareness about environmental conservation and the importance of living in harmony with nature. Sheshadri urged citizens to draw inspiration from her ideals, maintain cleanliness in parks used for recreation, and contribute to a cleaner, healthier environment. He noted that global warming poses increasing threats, and no science can replace the protective role of nature. Preserving ecological balance and planting trees is essential to ensure clean air and sunlight for all. Environmental care must start from one's own home to effectively combat pollution. Laxman, owner of Ganesh Jewellers, also lauded Timmakka's environmental dedication. He mentioned that visitors often flock to Mahatma Gandhi Park for recreation, and sudden rains leave insufficient shelter for cars and people.

'File criminal cases against those involved in Pune land scam'

Nagpur

Congress Legislature Party leader Vijay Wadettiwar has appealed to Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis that a criminal case should be filed against all officials and beneficiaries involved in embezzling crores of rupees in the Pune land scam. In a letter, he claimed that illegal transactions of government land worth crores of rupees in Pune Mundhwa were carried out with the connivance of selected private individuals and government officials, and this was a well-planned conspiracy to usurp government-owned land. His letter comes amid a raging controversy involving the Deputy Chief Minister and NCP chief Ajit Pawar's son Parth Pawar.

After Bihar rout, Cong unlikely to exit DMK alliance in TN

Instead of trying new coalition equations, the Bihar loss has pushed the Cong to hold firmly to existing, stable alliances with DMK-led front being a prime example

CHENNAI

The Congress party's crushing defeat in the Bihar Assembly elections has significantly reduced the chances of the party reconsidering its alliance strategy in Tamil Nadu, senior political observers and party insiders reveal.

Instead of triggering experiments or new coalition equations, the Bihar loss has pushed the Congress leadership to hold firmly to existing, stable alliances with Tamil Nadu's DMK-led front being a prime example.

Congress leaders had initially expected a revival in Bihar, but the severe electoral blow has forced a reset in the party's national strategy. With internal morale shaken, the high command is now inclined to minimize risks in states where the party's alliance structures are already functioning.

In Tamil Nadu, the DMK-Congress partnership has delivered consecutive victories since 2019, both in Lok Sabha and Assembly polls, cementing its utility. This development comes as a major setback to Tamilaga Vetri Kazhagam (TVK), the rising political outfit founded by actor-politician Vijay. TVK had been actively hoping to lure Congress into a new alliance, banking on dissatisfaction within sections of the state Congress unit particularly those upset with the current TNCC leadership.

Some Congress MLAs, MPs, and district-level leaders were reportedly open to a dialogue, viewing TVK as a platform that could potentially offer more seats and ministerial roles in a future government. Their hopes gained momentum after Vijay publicly appealed for a stable coalition alternative ahead of the 2026 elections.

TVK was further emboldened by internal surveys claiming nearly 26 percent support across Tamil Nadu a figure that, if accurate, could make it a formidable force in a three-cornered contest against the DMK and AIADMK.

3L rise in Bihar voter count after Cong flags discrepancy: ECI

NEW DELHI

The Election Commission of India (ECI) on Saturday issued a detailed clarification on the process of updating electoral rolls, responding to concerns raised by the Congress regarding a nearly three-lakh difference in Bihar's voter count.

The Congress had highlighted that Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar, in a press note dated 6 October, put the total number of voters in Bihar at 7.42 crore, while the Commission's press release issued after polling reported the figure as 7.45 crore.

Accusing the ECI of lacking transparency, the Congress questioned the sudden rise in the number of voters.

In its response, the ECI explained that the 7.42-crore figure was based on the final electoral roll published on 30 September, prepared after the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of rolls conducted prior to the announcement of the election schedule. This 30 September roll is traditionally regarded as the baseline voter data before any election.

The Commission clarified that, under election rules, eligible citizens may apply for enrolment up to ten days before the last date for filing nominations for each phase of an election. This provision remains available even after the election is formally announced, allowing additions to the voter list.

According to ECI officials, numerous valid applications were received between 1 October and the nomination deadlines for both phases. Following scrutiny, all eligible applicants were added to the rolls to ensure no qualified voter was excluded.

These additions resulted in an increase of approximately three lakh voters, bringing the total to 7.45 crore. The updated figure was correctly reflected in the post-poll press release, officials emphasised.

Bangladeshi national living illegally in Bengal arrested

KOLKATA

A Bangladeshi national living illegally in West Bengal was arrested while allegedly attempting to return to his country, fearing the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of the state's voters' list, police said on Saturday.

The arrested person has been identified as Durjoy Roy. The 28-year-old youth was arrested from Haldibari in the Cooch Behar district of North Bengal. According to the police, the youth also confessed to having come to India illegally four years ago.

During his stay in India, he allegedly procured an Aadhaar card and a PAN card using forged documents. According to officials, local residents found him roaming around the Sinjarhat area since and became suspicious.

After receiving the information, the police of Dewanganj Out Post reached the spot. When Durjoy was questioned, he admitted that he is from Bangladesh. After that, the police arrested him and took him to Dewanganj Out Post. Police said the youth is a native of Mardia village of Sirajganj district in Bangladesh. He had entered India illegally about four years ago. He was working in hotels and tea gardens as a worker.

As soon as the SIR exercise of Bengal's voters' list began earlier this month, the pressure increased on him to flee the country. He decided to go back to Bangladesh through a broker, crossing the India-Bangladesh border at night. That's how he reached the Haldibari area.

However, on his way to Bangladesh, he was arrested by the police. A mobile phone, Aadhaar card, PAN card, a bank ATM card and some money were recovered from him. After the police arrested him, the Bangladeshi youth told local reporters, I came here for a visit about four years ago. I used to work in tea gardens and hotels here. However, he denied coming to the country illegally.

AQI at 400: Delhi turns into gas chamber

NEW DELHI

The Air Quality Index (AQI) in Delhi-NCR remained in the 'severe' category on Saturday as the residents woke up to another day of choking smog.

The Air Quality Early Warning System (EWS) recorded the city's AQI at 386, while private air quality monitor AQI.in pegged it at 470. This corresponds to the effect of smoking 12 cigarettes daily on your lungs. A thick veil of haze covered the skyline, making it difficult to see buildings and major roads in the morning.

According to the Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) readings, several areas in the city witnessed 'very poor' or 'severe' pollution levels -- Ashok Vihar reported an AQI of 415, CRRI Mathura Road 365, Burari Crossing 383, Chandni Chowk 419, Bawana 441, Jahangirpuri

422, Dwarka Sector-8 393, JLN Stadium 389, ITO 418, Mundka 426, Najafgarh 385, Patparganj 399, Rohini 423, Punjabi Bagh 405, Narela 418, Wazirpur 447, RK Puram 406, Siri Fort 495, Vivek Vihar 418 and Sonia Vihar 410.

According to the Early Warning System for Delhi, the AQI recorded at 5:30 AM was 386. The variation in AQI readings is a result of the different parameters being monitored and the locations of the air quality monitoring stations. Due to persistently high pollution levels, the Commission for Air Quality Management (CAQM) has maintained Stage III of the Graded Response Action Plan (GRAP) throughout Delhi-NCR.

The measures implemented under this stage comprise limitations on construction projects, brick kilns, stone crushers, and other operations that emit high levels of pollution.

Meanwhile, the Supreme Court has instructed the governments of Punjab and Haryana to submit a status report regarding the actions implemented to reduce stubble burning, which is a significant factor in the air pollution problem in the Delhi-NCR area.

Bengal misses SIR deadline again, 22L enumeration forms undistributed

KOLKATA

The first phase of West Bengal's special intensive revision (SIR) of the electoral roll has missed its deadline for the second time, with 22 lakh enumeration forms yet to be distributed.

According to data from the Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) of West Bengal, approximately 7.45 crore forms had been distributed by 6 p.m., covering around 97 percent of the state's 7,66,37,529 registered voters as of October 27.

The distribution of enumeration forms marks the first of three key stages in the SIR, which began on November 4 and is being conducted after a gap of more than two decades — the last such exercise took place in 2002. The initial distribution deadline was November 11, but around 15 percent of voters still remained uncovered at that point, prompting the extension to November 14. Despite the extra time, the process remains incomplete.

Officials say that at least 60 lakh voters have been categorised as non-traceable, as booth-level officers (BLOs) were unable to deliver forms to them directly. In these cases, BLOs pasted notices on the main doors of residences, instructing voters to reach out and collect their forms by a specified date. Those who failed to respond have been marked as non-traceable — a designation that could affect their retention in the voter list if not corrected.

The election authorities now face a race against time, as the entire SIR process must be finished by March next year. The ongoing revision is especially significant because voters whose names or parents' names were not present in the 2002 voter list must now provide one of 11 approved documents to maintain their status on the electoral roll.The delays have raised concerns about the efficiency of the revision process, particularly ahead of the 2024 Lok Sabha election preparations.

BJP leaders, workers celebrating NDA's Bihar win attacked in Bengal

KOLKATA

BJP leaders and workers in two districts of West Bengal were either allegedly attacked by the Trinamool Congress workers or arrested by the police while they were celebrating the thumping victory of the BJP-led National Democratic Alliance (NDA) in the Bihar polls. The Leader of the Opposition in the West Bengal Assembly, Suvendu Adhikari, had issued a social media statement on Saturday morning claiming that the BJP's organisation district secretary of Cooch Behar, Ajay Roy, was harassed, dragged, and arrested by the cops at Dinhata in Cooch Behar district, reportedly for publicly celebrating the victory of NDA in the Bihar Assembly polls.

The leaders of the opposition accused the West Bengal minister in charge of the North Bengal Development Department, Udayan Guha, of masterminding the harassment of Roy and his subsequent arrest.

According to Adhikari, Guha, who was referred to as a criminal by the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) in the 2021 post-election violence case before the Calcutta High Court, had directed the state police to arrest Roy. The Trinamool Congress party habitually misuses the police in this manner everywhere to vent their frustration against BJP leaders, Adhikari added. Despite repeated attempts, Guha was unavailable for comments. In another incident, around 12 BJP workers were attacked and injured by a group of around 50 people at Diamond Harbour in the South 24 Parganas district of West Bengal while they were celebrating the NDA's victory in Bihar.

The BJP district leadership alleged that the attackers were close associates of the ruling Trinamool Congress. In that attack, the BJP workers celebrating NDA's victory in Bihar were reportedly injured and are currently undergoing treatment at a local hospital. In both cases, there was no response from the Trinamool Congress or the district police administration so far.

'Voters went with NDA out of fear that RJD will bring back Jungle Raj'

PATNA

Former poll strategist Prashant Kishor's Jan Suraaj Party, which failed to open its account in the Bihar assembly, on Saturday claimed that a section of its voters ended up siding with the BJP-led NDA "out of fear of return of jungle raj under the RJD".

Addressing a press conference here a day after the poll results were announced, its national president Uday Singh also claimed "polarisation" took place in the Seemanchal region in the aftermath of the blast near Red Fort in Delhi, a day before the November 11 polling was held in the area.

"I can say there was fear of the return of jungle raj under the RJD. Although I am not saying that there has been any jungle raj, the fear was there. Many people, who would have given us a chance, ended up voting for the NDA out of that fear," said Singh, the former BJP MP.

He added, "Let me make a distinction here. I am saying people had a problem with RJD, not with the Congress or other constituents of the opposition Mahagathbandhan".

Singh, a former MP from Purnea, also said another factor came into play after the Delhi blast that claimed the lives of at least 13 people.

"I was in the Seemanchal region and the incident did lead to polarisation of votes," he said

TRIBAL PRIDE DAY

Tribals of Gujarat gears up to welcome PM Modi

AHMEDABAD

Tribal communities in Gujarat's Narmada district are gearing up for a historic celebration as Prime Minister Narendra Modi arrives on Saturday to preside over the national observance of the 150th birth anniversary of tribal icon and freedom fighter Birsa Munda.

The event, held at Dediapada, forms part of the nationwide Tribal Pride Day celebrations officially designated by the Prime Minister to honor the legacy, culture, and rights of India's indigenous communities.

The day bears both emotional and political significance. The Prime Minister will begin his visit by offering prayers at the revered Yaha Mogi Devmogra Dham in Devmogra village, 30 km from Dediapada, symbolically reinforcing his connection with tribal faith and traditions.

Thousands of tribal residents are expected at the public gathering, where PM Modi will highlight the government's ongoing initiatives aimed at tribal welfare, including livelihood improvement, cultural preservation, and forest rights.

A woman expressing hope for the accelerated development said, "Today marks the 150th birth anniversary of Birsa Munda. We are here to see PM Modi in person. His visit gives us hope that our region, too, will witness the same progress the rest of the state has experienced."

The celebration will feature vibrant cultural performances, including Dangi Nritya and traditional tribal dances prepared exclusively for the occasion. Performers described their excitement, saying they were ready to welcome the Prime Minister with full fervour.

The visit also intersects with ongoing welfare efforts such as the Van Bandhu Kalyan Yojana, launched by Modi in 2003, through which tribal families have secured legal rights to forest land. Locals credit sustained development under Modi's leadership for improved living conditions and view the visit as a catalyst for further growth.

NHAI plans elevated corridor, underpass on at Arcot

Chennai

Tamil Nadu's Arcot town is poised for smoother and safer travel as the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) prepares to open a new elevated corridor and an underpass on the Chennai–Bengaluru Highway (NH-48) soon. The project, built at a cost of Rs 22 crore, is expected to address long-standing congestion and accident risks at one of the busiest junctions in the state's Ranipet district. NHAI officials said the elevated corridor and the underpass near the crucial tri-junction will substantially ease movement on the high-traffic stretch, which has been classified as a black spot based on accident data shared periodically by the district police.

Chennai pet owners scramble for microchips, seek more time

Each chip costs around ₹300, but GCC is offering the microchipping service free of charge at its designated centres.

The announcement was made by Union Health Minister JP Nadda during an event in New Delhi marking the 10th anniversary of the AMRIT initiative.

Launched in 2015, the AMRIT pharmacy network has grown from a modest beginning to more than 255 operational outlets spread across 24 States and four Union Territories. In 2014, the government launched AMRIT and Jan Aushadi Centres with an aim to provide accessible, affordable, and equitable healthcare facilities to all people in the country, Nadda said while appreciating the success of the mission.

The newly inaugurated AMRIT centres will function at PGI Neuroscience Centre in Chandigarh, GMCH Unit-II and State Cancer Institute in Jammu, AIIMS Deogarh, Dental Hospital Srinagar, SCTIMST in Trivandrum, Mumbai Port Trust, IIT Jodhpur, AIIMS Gorakhpur, and AIIMS Kalyani Unit 3. These centres will cater to patients requiring medicines for critical treatments including oncology, cardiology, orthopaedics, and endocrinology.

Nadda emphasized that AMRIT pharmacies offer life-saving and essential drugs at prices up to 50 percent lower than their maximum retail price, without compromising on quality. The 50 per cent discount offered on branded medicines, especially for cancer and cardiac patients, is commendable, he said.

Currently, more than 6,500 drugs and medical products are available through the AMRIT network, which has benefitted over 6.85 crore patients nationwide. The minister highlighted that medicines worth over ₹17,000 crore have been dispensed through the programme so far, resulting in cumulative savings of more than ₹8,500 crore for patients.

STALIN ECI CRITICISM

Stalin welcomes Bihar verdict, but warns against EC's reckless actions

CHENNAI

Tamil Nadu Chief Minister and DMK president M.K. Stalin on Saturday said that while the Bihar Assembly election result was clear and decisive, it could not erase what he termed the misdeeds and reckless actions of the Election Commission of India (ECI).

In a strongly worded statement shared on social media platform X, Stalin accused the poll body of losing public trust and warned that its credibility had reached an unprecedented low.

Stalin congratulated Bihar Chief Minister-designate Nitish Kumar for his emphatic victory and acknowledged the role of effective messaging, governance and leadership in securing the mandate. He also praised RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav for what he described as a tireless and spirited campaign that resonated with young voters and energised the electorate.

Reflecting on the broader political lessons from the Bihar verdict, Stalin said election outcomes were never shaped by a single factor. Rather, they were an interplay of welfare delivery, ideological clarity, social coalitions and the credibility of those seeking public support. According to him, the Bihar mandate demonstrated that voters continue to reward consistent governance and clear communication.

Stalin noted that the INDIA bloc — of which the DMK is a key member — consists of seasoned leaders who fully understand the message sent by the Bihar electorate. He emphasised that the alliance must now undertake strategic introspection and recalibrate its approach in line with evolving public expectations ahead of future elections.

However, Stalin returned to the issue of the ECI with renewed criticism. He stressed that the institution must remain above suspicion, functioning in a manner that inspires confidence even among losing candidates. He cautioned that erosion of faith in the poll body would weaken the democratic fabric and undermine electoral legitimacy at a time when accountability is under intense national scrutiny.

Nowgam accidental blast: LoP Rahul expresses grief

NEW DELHI

Leader of the Opposition in Lok Sabha (LoP), Rahul Gandhi on Saturday expressed grief over the loss of 9 lives in an accidental blast in Nowgam Police Station in Jammu and Kashmir's (J&K) Srinagar, coinciding with the Congress' demand to convene an all-party meeting to discuss the growing threat of terrorism in the country.

The explosion at the Naugam Police Station in Jammu and Kashmir, which resulted in the death of several security personnel and injuries to many others, is extremely heartbreaking and concerning, wrote LoP Gandhi on X.

Rahul Gandhi said, Reports indicate that this horrific accident occurred during the investigation of explosives linked to the Red Fort attack. I pay humble tribute to the martyrs and hope for the swift recovery of the injured.

Jammu and Kashmir DGP Nalin Prabhat said that the explosion inside the Nowgam Police Station was unfortunate and dismissed any terror link, saying that other theories into the cause of this unfortunate incident were just unnecessary speculation.

The DGP told mediapersons, A huge quantity of explosive material from Faridabad was brought to Nowgam Police Station and kept securely in an open space.

Jharkhand celebrates silver jubilee, pays tributes to Munda

RANCHI

Jharkhand marked the 25th anniversary of its formation on Saturday with a grand state-level event at Morabadi Ground in Ranchi, drawing thousands of people from across the state.

Dignitaries, tribal representatives, schoolchildren, artists and citizens took part in the celebrations, which showcased cultural performances honouring the state's rich tribal heritage. Similar ceremonies, parades, sports activities and community gatherings were held in various districts to commemorate the milestone.

Jharkhand was officially formed on November 15, 2000, after being carved out of 18 districts of Bihar. It became the 28th state of the Indian Union following the passage of the Bihar Reorganisation Bill by Parliament on August 2, 2000. The foundation of the state was laid under the leadership of then Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee, whose government played a key role in fulfilling the longstanding demand for a separate tribal-majority state.

The date holds special significance as it coincides with the birth anniversary of Bhagwan Birsa Munda, the legendary tribal leader, freedom fighter and social reformer whose rebellion — the Ulgulan — against British oppression remains a powerful symbol of tribal resistance. This year marks the 150th birth anniversary of Birsa Munda, adding emotional and historical depth to the celebrations.

Chief Minister Hemant Soren extended his greetings to the people of Jharkhand while paying homage to tribal icons including Birsa Munda, Sidho-Kanho and Phool-Jhano. He reflected on the state's journey from struggle to stability, and from stability to prosperity, highlighting the progress made over the past 25 years. Soren also emphasized a future focused on inclusive development, stronger infrastructure, and protection of tribal rights and dignity.

Governor Santosh Kumar Gangwar praised the state's accomplishments across agriculture, industry, sports, arts and social welfare, calling the silver jubilee a testament to Jharkhand's resilience and achievements.

Cracks in Maha Vikas Aghadi: Cong plans to contest BMC polls solo

RANCHI

Crack have emerged in the Maha Vikas Aghadi alliance in Maharashtra, with the Congress planning to contest the BMC elections on its own.

Ramesh Chennithala, who is in charge of the Maharashtra Congress, said the state unit of the party has decided to contest the BMC elections solo. He said the local committee, taluka and district Congress units had urged that the party should contest all the 277 seats in the upcoming BMC elections.

"We conveyed this desire of our party leaders to the high command. The decision over contesting the BMC election solo will be taken by them," Chennithala said, adding that the move will not impact the MVA alliance.

"The opinions and demands of party workers are important in local body elections. This move will help the Congress party to strengthen and expand its base. It is also an opportunity for many loyal party workers to contest the elections," Chennithala said.

Bihar poll rout: Uddhav Sena accuses BJP-ECI collusion

MUMBAI

The Shiv Sena (Uddhav Balasaheb Thackeray) on Saturday vehemently criticised the Bihar Assembly election results, alleging a collusion between the Election Commission of India (ECI) and the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) to secure the National Democratic Alliance's (NDA) victory.

Shiv Sena-UBT said that the results were not surprising and reflected a collapse of public trust in the electoral process.

The party's remarks appeared in an editorial in its mouthpiece, Saamana, titled 'Long Live Election Commission', which sharply accused the Election Commission of India and the BJP of acting in concert during the polls.

The editorial carried a sharp remark asking, When the watchman of elections himself helps the thieves, whom should the public trust?

It said the situation in the country had become serious and troubling, adding that it felt as if the unlimited reign of the Kauravas has begun over the Mahabharata and there is no end to it.

Calling the Bihar verdict a scam in Indian democracy, the editorial argued that elections had lost their meaning under the Modi-Shah regime.

The piece stated that any celebrations in Delhi after the Bihar result, with drums and trumpets, should not be mistaken for a simple victory gathering. Instead, it described the scene as a warning that the funeral procession of Indian democracy has begun.

The editorial questioned the credibility of the elections and said the atmosphere in the country had become troubling. At the same time, the editorial added that the Constitution had the strength to withstand setbacks and that public resistance would continue. According to the editorial, the Bihar verdict followed a pattern seen earlier in Maharashtra. It said the Maha Vikas Aghadi, which had expected a stronger performance in Maharashtra, failed to cross even 50 seats.

HANDLOOM, HANDICRAFT BOOM

Gujarat's Garvi Gurjari records handloom sales over Rs 17 crore

AHMEDABAD

Gujarat's handloom and handicraft sector has reported a strong revival, with Garvi Gurjari recording sales worth over Rs 17.5 crore between April and October 2025 through its emporiums and 34 craft fairs held within and outside the state.

The surge in demand for indigenous products has provided employment to more than 7,000 artisans, marking a significant push towards the vision of Aatmanirbhar Gujarat to Aatmanirbhar Bharat.

The sales figures also include government gift hampers and décor orders executed by the Handloom and Handicrafts Development Corporation.

Under Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel and Cottage Industries Minister Naresh Patel, and Minister of State Swaroop Thakor, the state has intensified efforts to promote local artisans and traditional crafts in line with Prime Minister Narendra Modi's 'Har Ghar Swadeshi, Ghar Ghar Swadeshi' campaign.

To boost artisan incomes further, the corporation has issued purchase orders worth Rs 130.32 crore to craftsmen through its training-cum-production centres (TCPCs).

The corporation is now preparing for a fresh round of exhibitions in Delhi, Amritsar, Dehradun, Lucknow, Kolkata, Surat and Surajkund, aiming to expand market access for Gujarat's indigenous products.

Alongside, the state is running extensive promotional campaigns across radio, outdoor displays, and railway stations to strengthen the Centre's Vocal for Local initiative and encourage citizens to buy local.

Garvi Gurjari is also working to modernise traditional crafts by organising design workshops, training sessions, market-trend programmes and special design camps to help artisans adapt their products to contemporary demand.

The corporation says its efforts are helping Gujarat's rich handloom and handicraft heritage reach both national and global markets, directly translating into sustained livelihoods for thousands of artisans. Swadeshi products are available at Garvi Gurjari outlets across Gandhinagar, Ahmedabad, Vadodara, Bhuj, Salangpur, Libandi, Bharuch, Anand, Delhi, Hyderabad, Kolkata, Surendranagar, Ekta Nagar and Rajkot, as well as online at www.garvigurjari.gujarat.gov.in.

Chirag congratulates Nitish Kumar on triumph

NEW DELHI

After the announcement of the Bihar Assembly election results, Union Minister and LJP (Ram Vilas) chief Chirag Paswan on Saturday met Chief Minister Nitish Kumar and congratulated him on the NDA's sweeping mandate.

Paswan posted on X to mark the occasion, stating, After the Bihar Assembly Election results today, met with the Honourable Chief Minister of Bihar Shri Nitish Kumar Ji and extended hearty congratulations and best wishes to him for the NDA's resounding majority.

Speaking to reporters after the meeting, Chirag Paswan reaffirmed the solidarity and unity within the ruling alliance.

He said, After meeting the Chief Minister, I came to personally congratulate him and extend my best wishes. Under the leadership of Chief Minister Nitish Kumar, the NDA achieved a historic victory. As a representative of the Lok Janshakti Party (Ram Vilas), I met him to convey our congratulations and good wishes...

Paswan's remarks come at a time when the NDA has consolidated its position in Bihar with a powerful, near-landslide performance. Leaders across the alliance have hailed the results as a mandate for stability and continuity.

Adding to Paswan's sentiments, LJP (RV) MP Rajesh Verma highlighted the party's impressive performance in the state polls. He said, It is quite natural that 19 MLAs from our party have won, and many of the seats allotted to us were tough seats. Despite this, the party won 19 seats with a large margin, and on 2–3 seats we lost by very small margins. With this massive mandate, the people of Bihar have clearly shown that there is no alternative to the NDA now. The condition and the numbers of the Mahagathbandhan clearly indicate that the Opposition has disappeared.

India-Paraguay scale up bilateral ties at first JCM in Asuncion

ASUNCION

The meet serves as a comprehensive platform to review ongoing cooperation and identify new areas of partnership

India and Paraguay held the inaugural Meeting of the Joint Commission Mechanism (JCM) in Asuncion, marking a key step toward deepening bilateral relations.

The meeting, announced by the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) on Saturday, served as a comprehensive platform to review ongoing cooperation and identify new areas of partnership.

The session was co-chaired by Paraguay's Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs, Ambassador Victor Verdun, and MEA Secretary (East) Periasamy Kumaran. Both sides reaffirmed the positive momentum in their diplomatic engagement, especially in the wake of Paraguayan President Santiago Pena Palacios' recent State visit to India. The visit was hailed as a milestone, boosting political dialogue and paving the way for multi-dimensional cooperation.

India also welcomed the formation of the Parliamentary Friendship Commission for India in Paraguay's National Congress — a move that is expected to further strengthen legislative exchanges and diplomatic goodwill.

According to the MEA, discussions at the meeting spanned a wide range of sectors including political and economic relations, technology, energy, education, trade, health, civil aviation, tourism, water management, space cooperation, and sustainable development. Both sides also exchanged views on multilateral collaboration and coordination in international forums.

The two nations identified key priority areas to expand ties. These include agriculture, renewable energy — with a special focus on solar power, biofuels, information and communication technologies, cybersecurity, public health, railway development, infrastructure, water resource management, and capacity-building initiatives.

US judge bars Trump from cutting funding to UCLA

CALIFORNIA

In a significant legal development, a federal judge has ruled that the Trump administration cannot immediately cut federal funding or impose fines on the University of California (UC) system based on allegations that it allows antisemitism and other forms of discrimination on its campuses. The decision marks a temporary halt to the administration's efforts to penalize the institution while legal arguments continue to unfold.

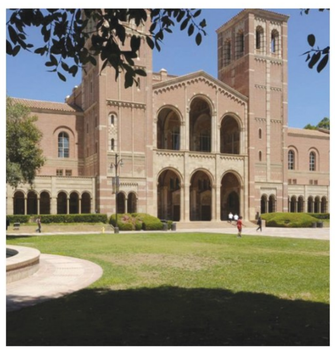
The case stems from complaints filed by several groups accusing the UC system of failing to adequately protect Jewish students from harassment and discriminatory incidents, particularly those linked to campus debates over Israel and Palestine. The Trump administration had argued that federal law empowers the government to withdraw funding from institutions that do not prevent discrimination based on shared ancestry or ethnic characteristics — protections that they say include Jewish students.

However, the judge noted that punitive actions such as funding cuts or fines require thorough legal review and due process. The court emphasized that the administration did not provide sufficient evidence to prove the university system was in violation of federal civil rights laws. As a result, the ruling prevents the government from taking immediate punitive action while the case proceeds.

The University of California welcomed the ruling, stating that it remains committed to maintaining an inclusive environment for all students, and highlighting that the system already has measures in place to address discrimination and hate speech. UC officials stressed the importance of safeguarding academic freedom and open dialogue while ensuring safety on campuses.

While the injunction blocks immediate federal action, it does not end the investigation. Legal experts say the case could influence how future administrations enforce civil rights policies related to antisemitism and other forms of discrimination in educational institutions.

The ruling represents a broader national debate over free speech, discrimination, and the federal government's role in regulating campus environments.



UN Security Council to vote on Trump Gaza plan on Nov 17

UNITED NATIONS

The United Nations Security Council is preparing to vote on Monday, November 17, 2025, on a resolution that would formally endorse U.S. President Donald Trump's proposed peace plan for Gaza. Diplomats confirmed that the draft resolution is now in its final stage of discussion, marking a pivotal moment in the ongoing diplomatic effort to secure lasting peace after two years of conflict between Israel and Hamas.

The vote follows a week of intense closed-door negotiations led by the United States, which circulated a draft text among the 15 Council members. The resolution is expected to build upon the fragile ceasefire agreement that has halted major hostilities in the Gaza Strip, where violence has claimed thousands of lives and displaced countless families since the conflict escalated.

According to diplomatic sources, the draft resolution outlines key components of Trump's peace framework — including a phased withdrawal of forces, international oversight of humanitarian corridors, and a roadmap toward political dialogue between Israeli and Palestinian representatives. The U.S. has framed the initiative as a realistic path to peace, emphasizing security guarantees for Israel and reconstruction support for Gaza.

However, the resolution is expected to face scrutiny, particularly from permanent Security Council members who have previously expressed concerns about unilateral or U.S.-centric peace proposals. Russia and China have already indicated they will seek clarity on certain provisions, while non-permanent members are pushing for language reaffirming the two-state solution under international law.

If passed, the resolution would mark a significant diplomatic victory for the Trump administration and signal renewed UN engagement in Middle East peace efforts. However, if it fails, it could deepen divisions within the Council and create new obstacles for long-term peace initiatives. As the vote approaches, global attention is focused on the Security Council chamber, where the next chapter of Gaza's future will likely be decided.

Trump exempts key food imports from tariffs amid rising prices

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump has signed a new executive order exempting a wide range of food products from his sweeping import tariffs, marking a significant shift in his trade policy. The move comes amid mounting public and political pressure over rising prices, particularly following the Republican Party's disappointing results in last week's elections.

The exemption list, released by the White House, includes everyday staples such as coffee, bananas, avocados, tomatoes, coconuts, mangoes, and beef. The administration stated that these items cannot be produced in sufficient quantities domestically, making their exemption necessary to stabilize supply and prices.

Trump's tariff program currently includes a baseline 10 percent duty on imports from all countries, with higher levies targeting specific trading partners. For years, he has insisted that tariffs would not lead to price hikes for American consumers, dismissing affordability concerns as a con job pushed by Democrats. However, the economic reality — and increasing voter frustration — has forced a strategic recalibration.

Beef prices, in particular, have become a political flashpoint. Last week, Trump responded by calling for a federal investigation into the meat-packing industry, accusing companies of engaging in Illicit Collusion, Price Fixing, and Price Manipulation.

As inflation concerns deepen, Trump has also floated a $2,000 tariff rebate cheque to American households to offset rising costs — a move that critics say highlights the economic strain caused in part by his own trade policies.

Meanwhile, the legality of Trump's tariffs remains under scrutiny, with the US Supreme Court currently reviewing whether the executive branch had authority to impose them in the first place.

Despite these challenges, Trump continues to defend his broader strategy as essential to reducing the US trade deficit. He has long argued that tariffs are necessary to counter foreign cheaters and boost domestic manufacturing. But with food prices climbing and political fallout growing, this latest exemption order signals a rare retreat in his tariff-first approach.

China issues summons Japanese envoy over PM Takaichi's Taiwan remarks

BEIJING

China has escalated diplomatic tensions with Japan by urging its citizens to avoid traveling to Japan and summoning the Japanese ambassador in Beijing, following controversial remarks made by Japanese Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi regarding Taiwan.

The sharp exchange marks the latest flare-up in an already strained relationship rooted in historical grievances, territorial disputes, and the sensitive question of Taiwan's sovereignty. The diplomatic storm began after Takaichi suggested that Japan could deploy its Self-Defense Forces if China launched an attack on Taiwan. Responding to a parliamentary query last week, she stated that armed hostilities involving China and Taiwan could qualify as a survival-threatening situation under Japan's 2015 security legislation. Under that law, Japan is permitted to come to the aid of allies if an attack is deemed to endanger Japan's own national security.

If there are battleships and the use of force, no matter how you think about it, it could constitute a survival-threatening situation, Takaichi said, signaling a potential shift in the country's stance on regional security. Beijing reacted swiftly, condemning Takaichi's comments as egregious and accusing Japan of interfering in China's internal affairs.

Ethiopia confirms first-ever Marburg virus outbreak

ADDIS ABABA

Ethiopia has officially recorded its first-ever outbreak of Marburg virus disease, a highly lethal viral haemorrhagic fever, the World Health Organization (WHO) confirmed.

Laboratory results have verified nine cases in the South Ethiopia Region, marking a worrying new chapter for the country's public health system. The outbreak is centred in Jinka town, where several suspected cases were recently identified and tested.

So far, nine cases have been recorded in Jinka town, where the outbreak is currently concentrated

Marburg virus, which belongs to the same family of pathogens that cause Ebola, has an alarming case fatality rate of up to 88 percent. It spreads to humans from fruit bats and then through direct contact with bodily fluids of infected individuals, or via contaminated surfaces. There is currently no approved antiviral drug or vaccine for the disease, making early detection and containment critical.

Patients typically exhibit symptoms such as high fever, intense headaches, muscle pain, and profound fatigue. Many progress to severe internal and external bleeding within a week, often leading to fatal outcomes without supportive care.

According to WHO, Ethiopia's Health Ministry rapidly confirmed the outbreak through genetic testing, which revealed that the strain matches those previously detected in East African countries. This places Ethiopia alongside other African nations that have faced Marburg outbreaks, including Angola, Ghana, Kenya, Tanzania, Uganda, and South Africa.

The virus's natural host is the Rousettus aegypti fruit bat, commonly found across the region. Public health experts warn that human encroachment into bat habitats could be increasing viral spillover risks.

In response, Ethiopian authorities have begun widespread interventions including case isolation, contact tracing, and community screening. Public health campaigns are underway to educate residents about transmission risks and early symptom identification.

The WHO, alongside international partners, is assisting Ethiopia in scaling up its emergency response to contain the outbreak and prevent further spread. The situation remains under close global monitoring as health teams work urgently to break the chain of transmission.

Gold rises weekly despite sharp drop

New Delhi

The 24-carat gold prices ended the week higher, rising by Rs 4,694 to Rs 1,24,794 per 10 grams, but slipped from their peak after the US government shutdown ended. Prices saw a sharp intraday fall of nearly Rs 5,000 on Friday before recovering. International gold also weakened as hopes of an early US Federal Reserve rate cut faded following hawkish comments by Chair Jerome Powell. Analysts said bullion still posted one of its strongest weekly gains in a month due to safe-haven demand. They expect softness to continue unless uncertainty rises or the Fed changes its policy outlook in coming days ahead.

Office leasing, luxury housing boost real estate sector

New Delhi

India's real estate outlook strengthened in Q3 2025, driven by strong office leasing and steady demand for premium homes, according to the Knight Frank–NAREDCO report. The Current Sentiment Score rose to 59, while the Future Sentiment Score stayed at 61. Stable liquidity, easing inflation, and consistent policies boosted confidence among developers and investors. Most respondents expect steady economic momentum, improved funding, and stable or rising office rents due to limited Grade A supply. The South Zone led sentiment with strong leasing in Bengaluru and Hyderabad, while the North Zone showed recovery and the East Zone saw a slight dip.

Experts welcome India's new digital privacy rules

New Delhi

Industry experts have welcomed the government's notification of the Digital Personal Data Protection Act (DPDPA) Rules 2025, marking India's first full digital privacy framework. The new rules require social media platforms and all data-handling organisations to clearly explain what information they collect and how it will be used. Experts said the move brings India into a new era of trust, especially as AI relies heavily on user data. The rules allow users to revoke consent easily and complain to the Data Protection Board. Companies now have 18 months to comply, with experts stressing that privacy must become a long-term organisational culture.

Govt moots fresh relief to boost nationwide SEZ growth

The Commerce Ministry explores practical ways to use extra capacities in these zones, so that more goods can be supplied to the Indian market

VISAKHAPATNAM

The government is considering new relief steps to help Special Economic Zones grow faster and increase their production. Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal shared these plans during his visit to the Brandix textile units located in the Andhra Pradesh SEZ.

He said the ministry is exploring practical ways to use extra capacities in these zones so that more goods can be supplied to the Indian market. This, he explained, could also reduce imports, since goods arriving from abroad sometimes receive better benefits than supplies made by SEZ units to domestic buyers.

Goyal noted that the government aims to bridge this gap and hopes production across SEZs will rise sharply soon. The ministry is also examining what more can be done to support these zones. His visit was part of the CII Partnership Summit 2025, where he interacted with industry leaders and reviewed local infrastructure.

He added that all SEZ Commissioners have been asked to assemble in Visakhapatnam next week. They will tour Brandix Park and the Andhra Pradesh MedTech Zone to understand how high-quality infrastructure should be built and maintained. This experience, he said, will help improve SEZ standards across the country.

When asked if a new bill would be introduced in Parliament to implement these changes, Goyal said the ministry is reviewing every possibility. This includes legal amendments or rule-based changes. Industry representatives have long requested permission for SEZ units to sell goods in the domestic market by paying duty only on inputs, which they believe would help improve value addition. At present, SEZ products sold in the domestic market attract duties on the final goods.

Venezuela explores stronger ties with 'growing' India

NEW DELHI

'The South American nation is now looking at cooperation in critical minerals and hopes to draw more Indian investment into its growing sectors'

Venezuela has shown fresh interest in building stronger economic ties with India, especially in areas beyond the traditional oil trade.

According to the Commerce Ministry, the South American nation is now looking at cooperation in critical minerals and hopes to draw more Indian investment into its growing sectors.

This development came after a meeting between Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal and Venezuela's Minister of Ecological Mining Development, Hector Silva, during the 30th CII Partnership Summit in Visakhapatnam.

During the meeting, Goyal stressed the need to revive the India-Venezuela Joint Committee Mechanism, which has been inactive for ten years. He also pointed out that ONGC's ongoing work in Venezuela offers new room for partnership in mining and exploration. Goyal suggested that Venezuela consider accepting the Indian Pharmacopeia, which would make it easier for Indian pharmaceutical companies to expand trade. He also highlighted fresh opportunities in the automobile sector, noting that Indian companies could explore production and investment prospects.

India has benefited from importing heavy crude oil from Venezuela after the United States relaxed sanctions on the country in 2024. This has encouraged India to further widen its trade relationship. Earlier this year, Venezuela's Vice President Delcy Rodriguez visited India during the Energy India Week event and met Petroleum Minister Hardeep Singh Puri for detailed discussions.

Speaking at the Vizag CII Partnership Summit, Goyal said the world could benefit by partnering with India as the country expands economic connections promoting shared global prosperity. He shared three key suggestions for stronger global cooperation: boosting two-way investments, deepening technology partnerships, and strengthening trust among global partners. India, he said, aims to shape the new geo-economic landscape with a focus on technology, fairness, and capability-driven trade.

Trump rolls back food tariffs amid rising prices

WASHINGTON

U.S. President Donald Trump has cut tariffs on more than 200 everyday food items such as beef, coffee, bananas, tomatoes and orange juice. The move comes as Americans continue to struggle with high grocery bills and growing concerns about inflation. The tariff rollback took effect retroactively at midnight on Thursday and marks a major shift from Trump's earlier position that his import duties were not contributing to higher prices. Speaking aboard Air Force One, Trump admitted the tariffs "may in some cases" raise prices but claimed overall inflation in the U.S. remains low.

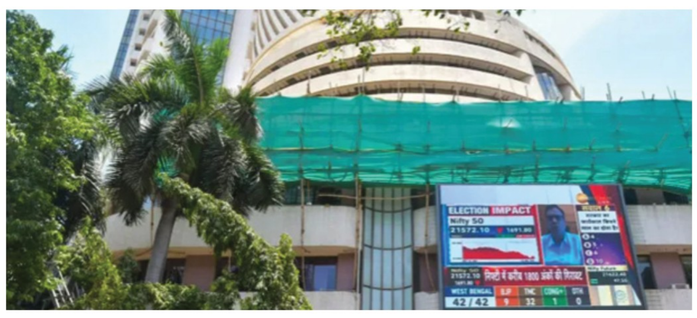
The administration also announced new trade frameworks with Argentina, Ecuador, Guatemala and El Salvador, which will eliminate tariffs on selected food products once fully approved. More trade deals may be finalised before the year ends. Many of the items on the updated tariff-free list are goods that American households purchase frequently and that have seen sharp price increases over the past year. Ground beef is up nearly 13 per cent, while steak prices have risen almost 17 per cent, the fastest jump in more than three years.

Industry groups welcomed the tariff relief, saying it could help lower prices for consumers and reduce costs for companies that depend on imported ingredients. However, some sectors expressed disappointment that their products were not included. Meanwhile, Democrats criticised the administration, accusing Trump of reversing course on policies that contributed to inflation in the first place.

IT pharma healthcare and auto stocks gained, as sentiment improved after NDA's Bihar win, though fading hopes of US Fed cuts triggered profit-booking in IT

Stock markets end week on strong note after Bihar NDA sweep

MUMBAI



Indian stock markets finished the week on a firm footing, supported by strong domestic indicators, easing inflation, and the NDA's landmark victory in the Bihar elections.

Analysts said the resolution of the US government shutdown and better-than-expected second-quarter results also lifted investor sentiment. Record-low inflation in October strengthened expectations of an upcoming RBI rate cut, helping the markets maintain steady momentum.

Sectoral gains were broad, with IT, pharma, healthcare, and auto stocks showing positive movement earlier in the week. Vinod Nair of Geojit Investments said investor confidence improved as the week progressed, especially after the NDA secured a decisive win in Bihar. However, declining hopes of a quick US Federal Reserve rate cut led to profit-booking in IT stocks, slightly cooling their earlier gains.

On Friday, markets traded under pressure for most of the day, shifting between small losses and brief recoveries. A strong rebound in the late afternoon eventually pushed the indices into positive territory. Volatility increased as investors closely tracked the Bihar election results, which became the day's main driver.

Weak global cues also weighed on sentiment. Wall Street had slipped sharply the previous night, led by a fall in major technology companies like Nvidia, as inflation concerns reduced expectations of near-term rate cuts. Despite the uncertainty, the Sensex closed 84 points higher at 84,563, while the Nifty gained 31 points to end at 25,910.

Sector performance was mixed. PSU banks led the gains with a rise of over one per cent, followed by strength in pharma and FMCG stocks. IT declined slightly, while auto, metal, and realty sectors ended lower. In the broader market, the Nifty Small-cap 100 climbed 0.38 per cent and the Midcap 100 added 0.08 per cent.

IRB Infra Trust wins NHAI's TOT Project

NEW DELHI

IRB Infrastructure Trust has secured a significant Toll Operate and Transfer (TOT) Project from the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) in Uttar Pradesh for an upfront payment of ₹9,270 crore.

The announcement was made through an exchange filing on Saturday. This project falls under NHAI's ongoing asset monetisation plan, which aims to raise funds for building and upgrading national highways across the country.

According to the company, IRB Infrastructure Trust has received the official Letter of Award for a bundle that covers 366 kilometres of key highway stretches. These include sections of the Lucknow–Ayodhya–Gorakhpur corridor on National Highway 27 and parts of the Lucknow–Varanasi corridor on National Highway 731. The project will operate under a revenue-linked concession for a period of twenty years. IRB Infrastructure Developers, which manages the trust, confirmed the development and highlighted the importance of this stretch due to its rising religious and regional tourism.

Virendra D. Mhaiskar, Chairman and Managing Director of IRB Infrastructure Developers, described the TOT 17 project as a major achievement. He said the win strengthens the company's already strong position in the TOT market, giving the IRB platform an impressive 42 per cent share in this segment. He added that the corridor plays an important role in connecting major pilgrimage locations and supporting regional economic growth.

IRB Infrastructure Developers is the largest private toll road developer in India, with assets worth over ₹80,000 crore across twelve states. Through its parent company and two infrastructure investment trusts, IRB continues to expand its presence in national highway development, offering long-term experience in tolling, operations, and large-scale road management.

ED gets custody of builder amid money laundering probe

NEW DELHI

The Enforcement Directorate has arrested Swaraj Singh Yadav, managing director of Ocean Seven Buildtech Company, for investigation, following raids unearthed cash and documents linked to wrongdoings.

Officials said searches were held across several Delhi NCR locations. The agency recovered eighty-six lakh rupees believed to be proceeds. Investigators found digital evidence showing suspicious money movements by Yadav. The ED claims he diverted homebuyer funds through secret methods. These methods included cancelling units and reselling them at premiums. He allegedly used shell companies to hide large cash amounts. Investigators said he hid extra money with different family members. A pattern of quick asset sales was noticed across states. These sales were reportedly meant to avoid possible legal action. Officials revealed his wife and children had moved to America. The probe says he used dual payment systems for transactions. Only small amounts were routed through banks during those deals. Most payments were reportedly collected in cash from buyers directly. These actions are part of several cheating and forgery cases. Following his arrest he was presented before a special court. The court granted the agency fourteen days of custody today. He will remain in custody until late November this year. The agency must bring him back when custody ends again. Officials say more investigation will help recover stolen homebuyer money. They aim to freeze assets gained through alleged illegal activities. The agency hopes to return recovered amounts to affected families. More evidence collection is planned across several related project sites. Officials expect cooperation from victims who purchased homes in projects. The investigation continues as the agency reviews all gathered records.

AP CM terms Sri City one of India's best industrial townships

VISAKHAPATNAM

Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu on Saturday inaugurated five new industrial units in Sri City through a virtual ceremony. He also witnessed the signing of agreements for 12 more upcoming projects worth over Rs 2,300 crore during the 30th CII Partnership Summit held in Visakhapatnam. These new projects cover engineering, food processing and pharmaceutical sectors, and are expected to create more than 12,000 jobs.

According to an official release, the newly approved projects will bring an investment of around Rs 2,320 crore. Speaking at the event, the Chief Minister praised Sri City, calling it one of the best industrial townships in India. He said several well-known companies like Daikin, Isuzu and Cadbury are already manufacturing and exporting products from there.

Naidu urged industries from across the world to consider Sri City for their operations. He shared that the state has already approved investments worth Rs 8.8 lakh crore from companies in Belgium, Japan, the UK, Germany, Australia and other nations across healthcare, engineering, electronics, automobiles and medical devices.

The Chief Minister also announced that 6,000 acres of land will soon be added to Sri City to support future growth.

GROWTH LIFTER

EDF helps inflate India's tech startup ecosystem

NEW DELHI

The Electronics Development Fund (EDF) has played a major role in strengthening India's technology ecosystem by investing nearly Rs 258 crore in eight specialised Daughter Funds.

These funds have supported a large number of tech startups and helped create more than 23,600 jobs across the country.

According to an official statement, these Daughter Funds have together deployed over Rs 1,335 crore into 128 startups and ventures, contributing to significant growth in advanced technology sectors. Their efforts have also resulted in the creation or acquisition of 368 intellectual properties, showing strong progress in innovation-driven work.

The Electronics Development Fund usually keeps a minority share in each Daughter Fund, which encourages greater private investment and professional fund management. The supported startups are working in fast-growing fields such as the Internet of Things, robotics, drones, autonomous vehicles, HealthTech, cybersecurity, artificial intelligence, and machine learning. These areas are expected to define the future of global technology, and India is positioning itself as a strong player through such investments.

Out of the 128 startups backed so far, Daughter Funds have exited from 37, earning returns of nearly Rs 174 crore. This shows that the investment model is not only helping new companies grow but is also generating healthy financial results. By offering early risk capital, the fund has enabled many startups to work confidently on cutting-edge technologies and contribute to India's efforts in expanding domestic design and intellectual property.

The Electronics Development Fund was launched in February 2016 to promote research, development, and entrepreneurship in electronics, nano-electronics, and information technology. It also supports India's goals in the Electronics System Design and Manufacturing sector by helping the country reduce import dependence and strengthen self-reliance through the acquisition of foreign technologies when needed.

LAC STRATEGIC BOOST

NYOMA

INDIA'S HAWK EYE that looks straight into CHINA'S HEART

The airbase, which is 13,700 feet above sea level and only 25 km from China's Line of Actual Control in Ladakh represents a significant step in India's China readiness

High in the freezing mountains of Ladakh, India is building something extraordinary — the world's highest airbase where fighter jets can actually operate. The Nyoma airfield, sitting at about 13,700 feet above sea level, is being transformed from a simple mud airstrip into a full military airbase capable of handling everything from massive transport planes to fighter jets and attack helicopters. This isn't just another construction project. It's a clear message to China, and it could change how India defends one of its most sensitive border regions.

LAC INDIA-CHINA STANDOFFS

The Line of Actual Control (LAC) is the unofficial border between India and China in these high mountains. Unlike normal international borders, the LAC isn't clearly marked or agreed upon by both countries. India and China have different ideas about where it should be, which is why soldiers from both sides often come face-to-face during patrols, and tensions keep building. The Nyoma airbase is just 40 kilometers from this disputed line, right next to the Indus River near Nyoma village in Leh district.

1 Basic airfield to extraordinary

This airfield has an interesting history. It was first built in 1962 but then abandoned for decades. The Indian Air Force brought it back to life in 2009 when an AN-32 transport aircraft successfully landed there during a trial run. Since then, it's been used regularly by transport planes and helicopters to move soldiers, weapons, and supplies to troops stationed in this impossibly remote area. But until now, it was just a basic airstrip with very limited facilities.

2 Realisation for better military infra

Everything changed after the 2020 stand-off with China near the LAC. That tense confrontation made India's government realize just how badly we needed better military infrastructure in Ladakh. In 2021, work began to completely upgrade Nyoma under Project Himank, run by the Border Roads Organisation. The project costs around ₹220 crore and includes building a strong 3-kilometer runway, a proper air traffic control tower, hangars to shelter aircraft, and blast pens — special protective shelters that keep fighter jets safe from enemy bombs and artillery fire.

3 Major boost to strategic airlift

Once completed, Nyoma will allow giant transport aircraft like the C-17 and IL-76 to land and take off regularly. These massive planes can carry tanks, rocket launchers, air defence systems, and hundreds of soldiers at once. Imagine being able to fly in an entire battalion with all their heavy weapons in just a few hours instead of waiting days for road convoys through dangerous mountain passes. That kind of speed gives India a huge tactical advantage — we can respond faster, surprise the enemy, and reinforce positions before anyone can react.

4 Keeping China under close radar

But it's not just about transport planes. Fighter jet squadrons will rotate through Nyoma, meaning some jets and pilots will be stationed there temporarily. Drones and Apache attack helicopters, which are already in Ladakh after the 2020 tensions, will also operate from here. Having combat aircraft permanently based so close to the LAC does two things — it warns China that we're watching and ready, and it massively improves our surveillance and intelligence-gathering along the disputed border.

6 Need for longer runway, lesser load

But here's the reality check — Nyoma also has serious vulnerabilities. At 13,700 feet, it's the third-highest airfield in Ladakh. The weather here is absolutely brutal. Winter temperatures plunge to –40°C, with heavy snow and fierce winds that can ground all aircraft for days. The air is so thin at this altitude that jet engines produce much less power. This means aircraft need much longer runways to take off, and they can carry only about half their normal load of fuel, weapons, or cargo. That's a massive operational limitation.

7 Locational drawbacks

Storing fuel and lubricants in such extreme cold is incredibly difficult, and sensitive electronic equipment can malfunction or stop working in these temperatures. Then there's the biggest danger — Nyoma's location. Being just 40 kilometers from the LAC makes it extremely vulnerable to Chinese artillery fire and small tactical drones that are nearly impossible to detect. The base is also exposed to electronic warfare, where enemy jamming signals can disrupt our radars, communications, and navigation systems.

Access is another major problem. Nyoma is in an extremely remote location, and the few roads connecting it can be easily blocked by landslides, snow, or enemy attacks. Some military experts worry that while Nyoma gives us a strong advantage at the start of any conflict, it might become a liability once China focuses its firepower on it.

8 Bold move, but need to play smart

So yes, India's new sky-high airbase at Nyoma is a bold and necessary step forward in defending our borders. It gives us speed, reach, and the ability to project power right where we need it most. But we must also be realistic about its limitations and ensure we have backup plans, strong defenses, and alternative supply routes. In the high-stakes game being played in the Himalayas, Nyoma could be our ace — but only if we play it smart.

INTERNATIONAL DAY FOR TOLERANCE – NOV 16

Tolerance: The true key to peace, co-existence

The International Day of Tolerance is observed every year on November 16 to promote tolerance and to spread awareness among people about peace, sensitivity, harmony, and emotional wellness. Its purpose is to eliminate the growing feelings of violence, war, terror, and negativity in the world, and to strengthen the message of non-violence

A ray of hope amid rising intolerance

At a time when atrocities, terrorism, violence, and injustice are increasing globally, this day holds special relevance for inspiring people toward sensitivity and the value of tolerance. It encourages harmony among different religions and diverse cultures. It is not just a formal observance, but an urgent call to safeguard the future of humanity. While the world is touching new heights of development and technology, it is simultaneously sinking into the depths of intolerance, violence, war, terror, and rage. This contradiction reveals that no matter how advanced human beings become outwardly, if there is no light of tolerance, patience, and compassion within, even the most glittering civilizations can collapse.

Binding factor

In today's stressed environment, tolerance is the most powerful force that binds human relationships together. It is not a weakness but an inner strength that enables us to understand, accept, and respect views different from our own. Growing intolerance among individuals, societies, and nations is the root cause of war, hatred, and hostility; it is also the fuel behind communal violence and fanaticism. Intolerance, hate speech, fear, and animosity toward others are not only powerful drivers of conflict and war but their primary cause. Tolerance, on the other hand, is the unifying force that holds together our multicultural, multireligious, and multiethnic world. Intolerance does not merely tear apart the social and political fabric; it also harms the nation's economy, its development, and its international standing.

In an age of globalization, tolerance is vital for strengthening global financial and trade systems. It plays a crucial role in personal life as well, especially when changing lifestyles and social environments are rapidly eroding human patience.

Ripple effects of overreactions

Tolerance is as essential in personal life as it is in international relations. Homes are filled with tension because we are losing the patience to listen to one another. Relationships break because we refuse to accept differences. Modern individuals have become increasingly reactive; even mild criticism unsettles them. If we light the lamp of tolerance within ourselves, life can become simpler, more beautiful, and more peaceful. The need for tolerance in politics has become more urgent than ever before. Politics determines the direction of a nation. When intolerance, disrespect, arrogance, and hatred enter politics, they spread throughout society. Today, political discourse is becoming harsh, and democratic dialogue is threatened by the negativity of opposition and the rise of divisive rhetoric. The true purpose of politics is public service and national progress, and this is possible only when ideas are respected, discussions are valued, and leaders remain willing to listen even to dissenting voices. Mature leadership unites people; it does not fuel hatred or division. Tolerance enriches politics with maturity and tempers the arrogance of power with human sensitivity.

Need for bridging communication gap

The increasing wars, religious extremism, racial conflicts, ethnic clashes, and the waves of hatred flowing across social media indicate how rapidly the fire of intolerance is spreading. In such situations, tolerance becomes not just a social value but the very foundation of humanity. Intolerance arises when human beings stop communicating, when the culture of listening weakens, and when personal ego overshadows collective harmony. The greatest deficiency in today's world is the lack of dialogue, patience, and the ability to respectfully accept diversity.

Making tolerance a way of life

The International Day of Tolerance reminds us that the future of humankind depends on how much we accept, how much we understand, and how generously we live. Our times demand that politics promote dialogue, religion spreads compassion, and society cultivates sensitivity. If we make tolerance not merely a thought but a way of life, then not only will our personal lives become peaceful, but the world will become safer, more beautiful, and more humane. This is the true message of tolerance—and the greatest necessity of humanity.

The spirit of coexistence

Tolerance is equally essential in the realm of religion because the true essence of religion is peace, compassion, love, and harmony. When religion becomes a tool of bigotry and narrowness, when people consider their faith superior and others inferior, the true spirit of religion is destroyed. Mahavira, Buddha, Jesus, Muhammad, and Gandhi—all taught that religion is meant to purify the mind and protect humanity, not to divide and create conflict. Religious tolerance is a measure of a society's spiritual elevation. The spirit of coexistence is the foundation on which a better world can be built. We live on the same earth, we belong to the same human family, and regardless of religion, language, caste, or culture, our destinies are interlinked. If we learn to live together with mutual respect, the world can move beyond violence and conflict toward harmony and prosperity.

IPL 2026: RR swap Nitish Rana for Donovan Ferreira with DC

A busy pre-auction trade window reshapes several IPL squads

MUMBAI

The Rajasthan Royals and Delhi Capitals have carried out a significant player exchange ahead of the IPL 2026 mini-auction, marking one of the most talked-about trade moves of the season. Rajasthan Royals have traded left-handed batter Nitish Rana to Delhi Capitals, while the South African all-rounder Donovan Ferreira will now return to his first IPL team, the Royals. Rana has been traded at his existing price of ₹4.2 crore. Ferreira's fee, however, has been increased from ₹75 lakh to ₹1 crore as part of the deal. Rana played 11 matches for RR in the 2025 season, scoring 217 runs at an average of 21.70 while mostly batting at number three.

The experienced batter has won the IPL twice, first in 2017 with Mumbai Indians under Rohit Sharma's leadership, and later in 2024 with Kolkata Knight Riders.

After seven seasons with KKR, Rana was released in 2024 and then picked up by Rajasthan Royals for the 2025 season.

Ferreira began his IPL journey with RR in 2024 and later joined Delhi Capitals for the 2025 edition.

His return to Rajasthan marks another step in RR's effort to strengthen their middle order and power-hitting options.

In another headline-making move, Rajasthan Royals have traded long-time captain Sanju Samson to Chennai Super Kings.

In exchange, RR have received senior all-rounder Ravindra Jadeja and England's Sam Curran. Samson, who has been with RR since 2013 and led them to the 2022 final, joins CSK at his existing price of ₹18 crore.

Jadeja's revised fee stands at ₹14 crore, while Curran moves at ₹2.4 crore.

Another major development saw fast bowler Mohammed Shami traded from Sunrisers Hyderabad to Lucknow Super Giants.

Shami, who has played 119 IPL matches and taken 133 wickets, joins LSG at his unchanged price of ₹10 crore.

Australia's Hazlewood out of first Ashes Test

PERTH

Australia's fast-bowling department has suffered yet another setback ahead of the first Ashes Test in Perth, with senior pacer Josh Hazlewood ruled out due to a hamstring injury. The news comes soon after regular captain Pat Cummins was declared unavailable for at least the opening Test as he continues to recover from a back injury.

Hazlewood picked up the injury during New South Wales' Sheffield Shield match against Victoria in Sydney, where he was forced to leave the field mid-game. While early scans showed no muscle damage, Cricket Australia later confirmed that follow-up tests revealed a low-grade hamstring injury. According to the board, initial imaging can sometimes miss such minor strains, making detection difficult.

Australia's pace stocks are now heavily depleted. Sean Abbott, Lance Morris, Jhye Richardson, Spencer Johnson, Cummins and Hazlewood are all sidelined, leaving the selectors with limited options just days before the series begins. To fill the gap, Michael Neser has been added to the squad for the opening Test starting November 21 at Perth Stadium.

Hazlewood's absence could offer an opportunity to South Australia pacer Brendan Doggett, who is in line for a potential Test debut. Hazlewood has been in fine form recently, claiming 14 wickets in the ongoing World Test Championship (WTC) 2025–27 cycle and delivering strong performances both in the recent white-ball series against India and in his latest Shield outing.

Australia will aim for a strong start to maintain their lead in the WTC standings. England, currently sixth, will look to claim their first Test win on Australian soil in an Ashes series since 2013.

AUSTRALIA'S SQUAD FOR FIRST TEST

- Steve Smith (capt)
- Scott Boland
- Alex Carey
- Brendan Doggett
- Cameron Green
- Travis Head
- Josh Inglis
- Usman Khawaja
- Marnus Labuschagne
- Nathan Lyon

Felix sets up semifinal clash against top-ranked Alcaraz

TURIN

Felix Auger-Aliassime reached the semifinals of the ATP Finals after defeating two-time champion Alexander Zverev 6-4, 7-6(4) in a straight-sets battle on Friday. The win secured the Canadian second place in the Bjorn Borg Group, setting up a semifinal clash with world number one Carlos Alcaraz. Italian star Jannik Sinner topped the group after a 6-3, 7-6(3) win over Ben Shelton earlier in the day.

Felix began the tournament poorly, losing his first three sets and appearing headed for an early exit. However, a strong comeback victory over Shelton revived his campaign, and his latest win over Zverev — a two-time ATP Finals title holder — has boosted his confidence heading into the last four.

This is a high-value tournament for players.

It is like a grand finale, he told ATP's official website. You want to be in the final, but I will have to go through a great player to do that.

The win also marked Felix's 50th tour-level victory of the season, making him only the second Canadian after Milos Raonic in 2016 to reach the ATP Finals semifinals. He has now beaten Zverev twice this year, including their meeting in the US Open third round, though the German still leads their overall head-to-head 6-4.

Both players struggled with consistency in the second set, and while Zverev showed frustration, Felix kept his composure.

After missing three break points earlier in the set, he steadied himself in the tiebreak to close the match in two hours and seven minutes. He was getting chances, but I came up with big serves to save them, Felix said. Felix now chases his fourth title of the year after winning trophies in Adelaide, Montpellier and Brussels, and continues to lead the decade with 85 indoor match wins.

Pathan urges Punjab to strengthen bowling backup options

NEW DELHI

Former India all-rounder Irfan Pathan has advised Punjab Kings to add strong backup options for their two key bowlers — ace leg-spinner Yuzvendra Chahal and left-arm pacer Arshdeep Singh — ahead of the IPL 2026 auction. He shared his views during JioStar's IPL 2026 'Retention Preview' show, stressing the importance of building depth in the bowling unit.

Chahal, bought for ₹18 crore in the IPL 2025 mega auction after being released by Rajasthan Royals, played a major role in Punjab reaching the final last season.

Despite missing two games due to a wrist injury, he claimed 16 wickets in 14 matches and remained Punjab's most reliable middle-overs bowler.

Arshdeep, retained using the Right to Match (RTM) card for ₹18 crore, was another key pillar for the franchise. He became Punjab Kings' all-time leading wicket-taker in IPL 2025, finishing the season with 21 wickets in 17 matches and continuing his rise as one of India's premier T20 bowlers. Pathan said Punjab must address two main factors before the auction. With Chahal being such a key spinner, having a dependable backup is essential. And while Arshdeep is irreplaceable, they should still have an Indian fast-bowling backup available, he suggested.

Meanwhile, former Australia opener Matthew Hayden spoke about Lucknow Super Giants' struggles last season, pointing to internal issues and injury-hit bowling resources. He said releasing Anrich Nortje to Kolkata Knight Riders could prove beneficial, as LSG lacked stability and depth early in the season.

Former India and CSK batter Subramaniam Badrinath also discussed LSG's plans, saying the franchise made a wise investment in captain Rishabh Pant, who cost ₹27 crore. Although Pant had a below-par season, Badrinath believes he is yet to reach his peak and remains capable of making a major impact. However, he agreed that Lucknow's biggest challenge continues to be strengthening their bowling attack.

Lakshya made a strong start in the opening game, racing to an 8-3 advantage with sharp court coverage and quick winners. India announce 23-man squad for Asian Cup qualifier

BENGALURU

Indian men's football head coach Khalid Jamil on Saturday named a 23-member squad that will travel to Dhaka, Bangladesh, for the AFC Asian Cup Saudi Arabia 2027 Qualifiers Final Round Group C match scheduled for November 18. The team has been training in Bengaluru since November 6 and will fly to Dhaka on Saturday evening, the All India Football Federation (AIFF) said in a press release.

A major talking point in the squad is the presence of forward Ryan Williams, who recently received his Indian passport. While he will travel with the team, his participation in the match will depend on a No Objection Certificate from Football Australia, followed by final approvals from FIFA and the AFC.

The squad includes three goalkeepers — Gurpreet Singh Sandhu, Hrithik Tiwari and Sahil — ensuring strong depth at the back. The defensive unit features a mix of experience and promising young talent, with Akash Mishra, Sandesh Jhingan, Rahul Bheke, Anwar Ali, Jay Gupta, Bikash Yumnam, Pramveer, and Hmingthanmawia Ralte included.

In midfield, Jamil has opted for energetic and versatile players such as Suresh Singh Wangjam, Mahesh Singh Naorem, Brison Fernandes, Lalremtluanga Fanai, Nikhil Prabhu, and Macarton Louis Nickson. Their role will be key in maintaining structure and possession in a high-pressure away fixture.

The attacking department consists of Edmund Lalrindika, Rahim Ali, Mohammed Sanan, Lallianzuala Chhangte, Vikram Partap Singh, and Ryan Williams. Their task will be to convert chances and secure a crucial win for India as they continue their quest to qualify for the Asian Cup.

Dhanush–Kriti's 'Tere Ishk Mein' trailer triggers mixed online buzz

The trailer of Tere Ishk Mein, starring Dhanush and Kriti Sanon and directed by Aanand L. Rai, has sparked strong reactions online. The film, which appears to blend romance, heartbreak and revenge, shows Dhanush in a dual transition—from an intense lover to an Indian Air Force pilot. Kriti Sanon plays a woman who struggles with addiction after their painful separation. The trailer, running for over three minutes, hints at a dramatic narrative filled with action, emotion and conflict.

Once the trailer was released, social media quickly filled with mixed responses. Many appreciated the chemistry between Dhanush and Kriti and praised the powerful visuals. One user wrote that the trailer was a perfect blend of love, madness and energy, adding that the film's release on November 28 now feels too far away. Another viewer shared that they watched the trailer multiple times, praising Dhanush's intensity and Kriti's emotional performance.

However, not all reactions were positive. A section of netizens questioned the storyline, expressing concern over yet another revenge-driven love story. One comment read, Is it necessary to shove a revenge theme into every love story nowadays? Another user criticised the tone of the trailer, saying they could not finish it because it glorified outdated ideas of love and violence.

Despite the mixed reviews, many fans expressed excitement over Aanand L. Rai's return with Dhanush, hoping for another memorable collaboration. As discussions continue online, Tere Ishk Mein has already become one of the most talked-about upcoming releases.
